(OZONIC OXYGEN)

THE NEW CURATIVE AGENT, AND ONLY RELIABLE REMEDY FOR NERVOUS AND LIVER COMPLAINTS.

This Phosphatic combination is pronounced by the most eminent members of the Medical Profession to be unequalled for its power in replenishing the vitality of the body, by its supplying all the essential constituents of the blood and nervous substance, and for developing all the powers and functions of the system to the highest degree.

It is agreeable to the palate, and innocent in its action, while retaining all its extraordinary properties; and, as a specific, surpassing all the known therapeutic agents of the present day for the speedy and permanent cure of—

|---|---|
| Nervous Prostration | Trembling of the hands and limbs |
| Liver Complaints | Impaired Nutrition |
| Palpitation of the Heart | Mental and Physical Depression |
| Dizziness | Loss of Memory |
| Noises in the Head and Ears | Consumption (in its first stages only) |
| Loss of Energy and Appetite | Timidity |
| Hypochondria | Eruptions of the Skin |
| Female Complaints | Impaired Sight and Memory |
| General Debility | Nervous Fancies |
| Indigestion | Improverished Blood |
| Flatulence | Nervous Debility in all its |
| Incapacity for Study or business | Stages |
| Sick Headache | Premature Decline |
| Lassitude | |
| Shortness of Breadth | |

and all morbid conditions of the system arising from whatever cause. The action of the Phosphodyne is twofold—on the one hand increasing the principle which constitutes nervous energy, and on the other the most powerful blood and flesh generating agent known; therefore, a marvellous medicine for renovating impaired and broken-down constitutions. It quickly improves the functions of assimilation; such a state of health where for one emaciated, anxious, cadaverous, and semi vital condition has existed, the flesh will rapidly increase in quantity and fulness, and the whole system return to a state of robust health. The Phosphodyne acts electrically upon the organisation for instance, it assists nature to generate that human energy which renews and rebuilds the osseous, muscular, nerve, membranous, and organic systems. It operates on the eye without exciting care or thought upon the individual as the process. It moves the lungs, liver, heart, kidneys, stomach, and intestines, with a harmony, vigour, yet mildness unpicked in medicine.

The Phosphodyne gives back to the human structure, in a safe form, the phosphoric or animating element of life, which has wasted, and exerts an important influence directly on the brain, marrow and nervous matter, of a nutritive, tonic and invigting character, maintaining that buoyant energy of the brain muscular system which renders the mind cheerful, faithful, and energetic, fully overcoming that dull, inactive and spirit disposition which many persons experience in all their ons.

The beneficial effects of the Phosphodyne are frequently shown from first day of its administration, by a remarkable increase of nus power with a feeling of vigour and comfort, to which pati nt has long been unaccustomed. Digestion is improved the appetite increases wonderfully; the bowels become regular the eyes brighter; the skin clear and healthy; and the hair gains strength, showing the importance of the action of the Phosphodyne on the organs of nutrition.

Finally, the Phosphodyne maintains a certain degree of activity in every debilitated nervous system; its use enables all debilitated organs to return to their sound state and perform their natural functions. Persons suffering from Nervous Debility or any unpleasant symptoms which this distressing disease may assume may rest assured of an effectual and even speedy cure by the judicious use of this most invaluable remedy.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

FRIDAY EVENING, 16TH JULY, 1875.

YESTERDAY'S Liverpool Cotton Market closed dull, sales 8,000 bales, Reuter's Spot quotations showing a decline of 1/16d. in Fair Dhollera and Mid. Orleans, and 1/32d. per lb. in good Fair Ginned Broach, G. F. Sawginned Dharwar and G. F. Hinganghaut.

The only arrival quotations are for Good Fair (good) Omra, August-September, and September-October shipment, via Cape, 5⅞ per lb., which if correct, indicate a belief in better markets later on. Such operations, however, are pure speculations on the next American Crop, as in the present position of affairs, with enormous stocks in Liverpool, and rapidly accumulating supplies of goods in Manchester, there is little hope of any improvement in the immediate future.

To-day's market opened quiet but unchanged: probable sales 10,000 bales, actual imports 10,000 bales.

We are without yesterday's New York figures, no telegram thence having been received to-day.

In Mincing Lane yesterday, Seeds and Oils were unaltered, but Coffee was reported strong at an advance of 1s. per cwt. The weekly quotations for Metals are unchanged with the exception of Tile Copper which is quoted at £86, a decline of £1 per ton.

Rupee Paper is the same as on Monday last, say Fours, 91⅞; Fours and a half 92⅛; Five and a half, 98.

The Bank of England returns for the week shows, as was expected, a decided increase in strength, the proportion of the reserve to liabilities having increased from 42½ to 403 per cent. The reserve has increased by £967,500 and Bullion by £675,000, whilst Bills Discounted are less by £1,687,500. No alteration has been made in the Bank minimum and the rate of Discount on 6 months' sight bills is still quoted at 3½ per cent, but looking to the unusually strong position which the Bank now holds—a further payment of £62,000 having gone in since the return—and the probability of only a limited demand for money for some time to come, a reduction at an early date seems almost certain. Some withdrawals may of course be expected shortly for Harvest purposes, and later on it seems probable that considerable sums may be required to pay for foreign corn, but these requirements are not likely to affect the market with so plentiful as it is. Consols this morning continue unaltered at 94⅛; French Rentes have advanced to 104 ⅝.

A remittance of £16,000 in Silver has left for Bombay by this week's Southampton steamer, and small as the amount is, from one point of view it may be looked upon as indicating the probability of a further decline in STERLING EXCHANGE. At the present price of Silver in London, the Bank have an ample margin for operating, and unless a lower figure was expected, it is to be presumed that they would avail themselves of the opportunity to lay down funds here in preference to drawing from this side at the present level. There has been no change whatever in rates here to day, but we hear that considerable weakness is shown in Calcutta where a stronger demand for remittance prevails.

GOVERNMENT PAPER is firmer with few sellers. We quote Fours, Rs. 102¾; Fours and half, Rs. 103¼; Fives and a half, Rs. 109.*

The SHARE MARKET to-day has been very irregular, but in most instances the alterations have again been in favour of buyers. In Spinning and Weaving Companies values, with few exceptions, continue to decline. Broach Mills are Rs. 5, Fiemings Rs. 15, Bombay United Rs. 10, Great Eastern Rs. 15, Soonderdass Spinning Rs. 10, and Madras Spinning Rs. 55 per share lower. Press property continues to give way, Apollo being Rs. 200, Colaba Rs. 100, and Nicol Press Rs. 150 per share lower. Bombay Bank Shares are steady but unaltered. Bombay Burma Trading Co.'s are Rs. 10 higher.

COTTON continues most depressed, but in the absence of business, we are unable to quote any actual change in prices. The Receipts yesterday were 568 bales, making 2,695 bales for the week.

FREIGHTS are unaltered. The Europa has now completed her engagements, and for the Clive (s. s.) £2 1-3 is asked to fill up, but there are few shippers in the present state of the weather. The Accrington, which is the only ship on its berth for Liverpool, is still at £2 per ton.

PIECE GOODS are firmer and the demand from first hands is comparatively active, but importers generally hold out for higher rates than dealers seem disposed to pay, and only a small business is doing in consequence.

CALCUTTA MONEY MARKET.

"ENGLISHMAN'S" OFFICE, MONDAY EVENING.

In the bazaar there is still great ease in money, but in commercial circles a stronger feeling is apparent, and although trade is duller than ever, it is beginning to be thought that for the present the value of money has become low enough or nearly low enough. The Bank of Bengal has not yet issued any statement since the termination of the half year, but there can be little doubt its outstandings to the public have been reduced to some extent by heavy arrivals of Council Bills that have meantime taken place. But it is impossible to overlook the possibility, if not the probability, of Government having, or being about to have withdrawn, a good part of its heavy deposits, to replenish up-country treasuries, now that the loan is placed. Some years ago a temporary transmission of money to Calcutta to foster a loan, would not have been considered as within the range of possibilities, but old times have changed and the suggested possibility must now be at least kept in view.

The Bank of Bombay has reduced its rates 1 per cent.

The imports of silver into this country have been very small indeed for a long time, and it is quite within the range of possibilities that more will be required before the end of the year; in which case it is not improbable the fall in its value, in Europe, will be arrested, and that for a time exchange will harden, but the greatly increased production of silver, and the restricted area for its consumption as a circulating medium, holds out no hope of a permanent enhancement in the value of the currency of this country, as compared with European currency.

Money is easier in England, and the Bank rate down to 3 per cent.

Trade remains deplorably dull, and in exports business is almost suspended. Silk continues depressed, but it seems now on something like a firm basis, and prospects are considered good. Jute is as dull as ever; what remains of the old crop may be called quite unsaleable, and in the new crop bales and buyers have not yet been able to approach terms, though the former are prepared to take very much lower rates than were current at the commencement of the last season.

The great import trade—that in cotton manufactures—has not improved in the least, but the rains are falling favourably, and there is no reason to doubt that a good demand will arise later on. The break-up in the excessive trading in this line is proceeding on a scale that cannot but do good in the long run to the legitimate operator. The source of the long-standing sore has now been decidedly tapped, and failures at home, traceable mostly to that overtrading, are proceeding on a scale of such importance as could scarcely have been looked for, with the power of tiding over difficulties that has for so long been seen. The exports of goods from England to this port, during June, are very large, but no doubt most had been arranged for before the break began, and the goods had to be sent forward on account of whom they may concern. The importance of the present difficulties in England, looking to their probable results, are much in excess of their actual and immediate incidence, and a writer in the Times, who wrote just before the departure of the last mail, has so clearly set forth the evil that has so long harassed eastern markets, that the following extracts from his article may be reproduced with advantage, though similar remarks have been not unfrequently laid before the public:—"The suspensions referred to are, with one or two exceptions, stoppages which are a direct gain to the commercial community. While there are houses in a trade that will go on accepting for another firm for a mere commission without receiving any value for their signature, and by so doing are not only fill ng the banks and discount-houses with worthless paper, and defrauding the shareholders, but are making it quite impossible for honest well-connected merchants to carry on any profitable business at all, it is patent that all engaged in that trade must be ruined tog ther, unless these houses are brought down."

Then, after remarking on the great increase in the eastern trade, in face of heavy losses, the writer proceeds to say:—"What is the truth of it? When once a large firm is in financial difficulties, it is next to impossible for it to stop its operations. The one condition alone upon which it can avoid collapse is by keeping continually increasing the extent of its operations, and we now see probably how it was that our exports of Manchester piece-goods increased to so astonishing an amount during the first half of last year. A house with a great credit, and consequent large discount facilities, can of course, ship Manchester goods to any extent within the limit of that credit; but if the opposite operations leave larger, and constantly larger losses, the shipments must be increased in a corresponding ratio, as the only means of existence. At length, as we have seen, to the astonishment even of those most nearly concerned, a snap occurs in some weak point, and the game is up and then all the subsidiary houses who have been taken on, one at a time, as dummy acceptors as it has been necessary to enlarge the area of affairs, come down too as a matter of course."

EXCHANGE.

Sterling weakened at the commencement of business one of the banks coming out as a very strong buyer, taking documents at 1-10¾, and credits at the result being that all other buyers stood aside. The usual remittance demand set in later and has been uncommonly small and the almost universal rate has been 1-9 15-16d. for Bank Bills, at six months' sight. A little has been done by one of the banks at 1s. 10d., but that is not a decided quotation; but to-day a stronger feeling has been evinced, and the few buyers that remain seem inclined to wait and see what next week's quotations will be. The general quotation for documents bills, given by buyers, is now 1-10 3-16d. and business is doing at that rate. To-day's working rates have been—

|---|---|
| Bank Bills, on demand | 1s. 9 3-8d |
| Bank Bills, 3 months' sight | 1s. 9 1 16d. |
| Bank Bills 6 months' sight | 1s. 9 15-16d. |
| Cedits & clean House Paper, 6 months' sight | 1s. 10 1-16d. |
| Documents Bills 6 months' sight | 1s. 10 1-16d. |

FRANCE.—Although business has been done in the interval at lower prices, the closing rate (also supported by business) are the same as last week; f. 2-33 at 3 months' sight, and f. 2-35 at 6 months' sight, document bills.

Bombay demand stands at par to 2 annas premium, and 60 days' sight at 12 to 13 annas discount, Bank paper.

CHINA.—No commencement has been made in opium bills, 30 days' sight at 222½ to 223, the rate looking not over strong.

The Secretary of State's issue of drafts on India last Wednesday went at a reduction on the previous issue, those on Calcutta fetching on an average about 1 9-32, and those on Bombay 1-9 5/16 Out of the 60 lakhs issued, 25 lakhs were drawn on Bombay.

STOCKS AND SHARES.

There has been but little improvement; still the tone of the market may be called steady, though without any present appearance of approaching activity.

Government paper has had, until to-day an improving tendency, and a considerable amount of business has been done. The four per cents have changed hands to some extent at 2 and 2¼ premium, but business has been done at 1½ also. In the new loan there has been dealing at 2¼ premium, and the transactions in four and-a-halfs have been beyond the usual scale, prices ranging between 2⅞ and 3⅛ premium, very little, however at the top figure. There has been a little business in the five and-a-half per cents. at 8¾ premium. To-day the market is dull, and rates may be called—

|---|---|
| 4 per cents | 102 |
| 4½ per cents | 103 |
| 5½ per cents | 108½ |

Bank shares continue good, and there has been a fair amount of transactions in Bengals, at previous price of 1,445, remaining steady. Nationals have been in request advancing from 114 to 117½, with business at these and intervening prices. Agras have sold at 94, and Punjabs at 75; but the latter have been difficult to get.

Tea Shares continue inactive, and their course has not been altogether favourable. Assams have been sold at 520, and Durrungs at from 86 down to 84½, but the latter seem to be offered more freely. Attabarees have brought 85, Kerreongs and Terahi 63, Singelas 133 and 132½, Central Cachars 161, Chota Nagpores 102 to 106, Dehings 64, Bisnauth contributories 49 to 50 premium, East Cachars 195, Monabeeris contributories 84 and 85, Singbulli and Murmaba 9 premium, Upper Assams 27, Central Terais 84, Kunchunpores 92, Kursoon and Dajeelings 106, Bengals 97, and Dehra Doons 81. This, however, shows an extended area of transaction.

Building Mill Shares have not improved in value, but buyers are looking after them, and they are, without doubt, gradually regaining public confidence. Barnagores have been dealt in at 99 and 98, Seebpores at 73 and 72, Howrahs at from 37 to 31 d scount (the call effecting these unfavourably), and Budge-Budges at 11 and 10 discount for original, and at 17 and 18 discount for new shares.

Coal Shares are slightly weak on the whole. Equitables have been dealt in at 260, but business is reported at 265 also. Bengal Coals have been taken at 95, Bengal Dhoobooms at 105, but there has subsequently been business in the last for time at 100 and the cash quotation is 98 to 100, Bengals are firmly held at 1,400.

Miscellaneous Shares are generally quiet, and in India General Steam nothing is reported. Landing and Shipping have been done at 40, 42, and again at 40, Bonded Warehouse (the first business for a long time) at 410, and Bally Paper Mills at 80. A new concern has just been most successfully launched on this market, "Carew and Co., Ld.," to take over the long established sugar and rum works at Rose, Shahjehanpore, the application for which have greatly exceeded the amount to be allotted, and the company is viewed with great favour, the previous success being so well known. There is an enquiry for the shares in the market, and a premium would willingly be paid for them, but no sales have yet transpired, the concern being apparently very strongly held.

PARLIAMENTARY.

DEBATE ON THE APPORTIONMENT OF THE EXPENSES OF THE PRINCE OF WALES'S VISIT TO INDIA.

LONDON, 16TH JULY.

A debate was held in the House of Commons last night on Mr. Sweetse's motion that no part of the expenses incident upon the Prince's visit to India should be charged against the Indian revenues. The honble member urged that the present was a favourable opportunity to make amends to India for the paltry manner in which the Indian Exchequer was made to defray the expenses of the visit of the Sultan of Turkey to England. Mr. Hankey, Member for Peterborough, seconded the motion.

Mr. Disraeli said that he opposed the motion as the Royal Visitor was not going in the capacity of representative of the Queen which would have entailed a vast expenditure, and of which a part would have been borne by India; but he was going out as the guest of the Viceroy, and he would have an excellent opportunity of visiting the ancient cities and viewing the scenery of our Indian Empire, of becoming acquainted with her various peoples, with their history, their literature and their customs. He (Mr. Disraeli) insisted that the right course had been taken in making the apportionment, and he believed that India would have reason to complain if deprived of the opportunity of showing hospitality. He concluded by saying that the visit would be an event in the history of the Empire and would be attended with inestimable benefits.

Mr. Gladstone supported the views of the Government which he considered just and fair. He quoted as a parallel instance the Prince's visit to Canada, which colony voluntarily assumed a charge of £53,000, and he said that India, if it had popular representation, would do similarly. Mr. Forsman supported the motion. Sir Wilfrid Lawson made a speech ridiculing Mr. Disraeli's arguments. Mr. Laing regretted that the present opportunity was not seized to act generously towards India.

Mr. Fawcett's motion was finally rejected by 379 against 67 votes.

The House subsequently went into Committee and Mr. Macdonald and Dr. Kenealy opposed the vote of £80,000 for the Prince's personal expenses. Mr. Bright approved of this item and the vote was carried by 350 against 16 votes. The vote for naval expenditure £52,000 was also carried by 258 against 12 votes.

The sum of £62,000 has been paid into the Bank of England.

Arrivals—Bellona, Loulsa, Kermale, Ganges, and Clydesdale.

Departure for Bombay via Suez Canal—Canara.

THE announcement of the death of Dr. Narayen Dajee, Sheriff of Bombay, which took place yesterday, will be received with regret by a large number of persons. It is probable, we believe, that Mr. Naus Morojee, Third Magistrate of Bombay, will be appointed to succeed him.

THE son of the Akhoond of Swat, who went to Kashgar and was reported ill, is now, we learn from the Lahore paper, on his way back to his native land.

THE actual receipts from four sales of Bengal opium and three months' duty on Malwa opium have exceeded the estimated receipts by £120,720. In the last month's account, whilst Bengal opium gave £47,878 more than the estimates, Malwa opium was £34,547 below the estimate.

WE notice a statement in the Neilgherry Courier that the Alpha Gold Miming Company have their crushing machinery all erected and in working order. Several of the directors are on the spot, and regular crushing will be commenced at once. The prospects are believed to be very good.

THE entire line of the Rangoon and Irrawaddy Valley State Railway, as determined upon at present, will, when completed, show a length of 371 miles—Rangoon to Prome 161 miles, Rangoon to Toungboo 170 miles, Prome to the frontier 40 miles. The section from Rangoon to Prome is expected to be completed in 1877-78 at an estimated expenditure of £900,000.

THE Rangoon papers, which reached us yesterday, contain nothing about Sir D. Forsyth's Mission that we are not already acquainted with. The return, however, of the Mission with a treaty duly signed seems to have inspired traders with some hope that peace will not be disturbed. The Rangoon papers state that trade is reverting to its old channels, and that the chief sufferer by the course of events will be the Irrawaddy Flotilla Company.

THE difficulty in the way of appointing a Judge to the Madras High Court has been got over by making the appointment of Mr. Louis Forbes in the place of Mr. Justice Holloway instead of Mr. Justice Kinderaley. This change in names is made in the last Government Gazette and Mr. Louis Forbes has accordingly taken his seat on the Bench, Mr. Justice Innes is expected to return to Madras about the 20th instant, and the High Court will then have its proper number of Judges.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Madras Mail, noticing that a gentleman, known at All Saints,' Margaret Street, London, as "Father Luke Rivington," has in one of his sermons in Madras spoken of an evil hour a sister of mine entered the sisterhood in Margaret Street, in which Father Rivington held a prominent place in conducting retreats, hearing confessions, &c., and in due course she became a professed 'sister.' After becoming such an one, she was supposed to be one of themselves; but shocked with the strange teaching they insisted on, with more courage than discretion, she claimed freedom of thought and speech. Petty persecutions soon followed, and in due course I was summoned up to London by telegram to see her brought out of All Saints' Convent, hardly better than a maniac. I refrain from any attempt at passing judgment."

HIS HONOUR the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal has been staying in Cooch Behar whilst visiting a school on the Rajah's estate. The boys sang a song of welcome, of which the following is a translation:—"Brethren!—let us stand in a row and sing forth a hearty welcome to our much beloved Governor. May Heaven preserve him who governs this extensive province of Bengal as if it were a family, and loves all his subjects as fervently as he does his children. May Eternal Providence grant long life to him at whose command ignorance is quitting the land and whose beneficient government is inducing the light of knowledge to cheer the hearths of even the peasants of Cooch Behar, a State not long ago the abode of darkness and of ignorance. Let the blessings of God be showered on him whose indomitable energy has saved the people of Bengal and of Cooch Behar from the grim jaws of famine. Let us all feed our souls with the sight of such a benefactor to our country. What have we to offer him in return save that pure love which wells up from the very core of the heart. Oh! thou Patriarchal Governor of our mother country, when preferrest before all monuments the devotion of the upright heart and pure, accept our humble offering, this sincere token of our love and esteem. Thou favoured of Heaven so highly, may eternal sunshine illuminate the fair brow of thy fame."

THE following is an extract from the Diary of the British Joint-Commissioner on special duty, Badakh, to 28th June, 1875:—"A Povindah trader, one of a batch who in the year 1871 made an experimental trip on this line with a caravan of goods for Turkistan, repassed through Leh during the week. I had an interesting conversation with him, and he replied to a query why the Povindahs have never since patronised this route; he explained that 'although there can be no doubt about the comparatively large profits of the Yarkand market and the facilities that the British Government have introduced, in the way of abolition of duties, &c., for this road, as well as the absence of all risk from robbers such as has to be run in Afghanistan and other districts through which we are in the habit of piloting our caravans, still these advantages are more than counterbalanced by the extreme difficulty of realizing one's money in Yarkand." A report reached this a few days ago that the Sassir pass had been closed from snow for about a week, the alternative route up the Shyok being on account of the rising of the river impassable also. Communication, however, across the Sasser is open again now. News was also received the other day of the death of the Grand Lama of Lhassa, the Bhuddist Pope. The hierarchy of Lamas at Lhassa is, as is probably known, a perpetual incarnation. The human form perishes, but the spirit is at once revivified in some other birth. His soleted that a boy born in one of the Ladakh Monasteries was transported, some years ago, to fill the post of Dalai Lama at Lhassan. On the present occasion it is not yet known on whom the succession devolves, but the question is according to ancient usage determined by the consultation of some oracle, or Lama who assumes some supernatural form and declares the new birth. A post was received from Yarkand last night, but it brought no news of any importance. The traffic of the past week has been confined to 15 horse loads from Kashmir, while 31 have gone out to Turkistan.

THERE is some hope for supposing, that so far as tobacco is concerned, the failure of Cuba may be India's opportunity. A writer in a London paper says that nobody who pretends to a knowledge of tobacco can regard with indifference the disappearance of the world-famous Cuban brands of cigars. "Real Havana" has, doubtless, been always more or less of a delusion; but it was a tenderly cherished delusion, and it will be hard to part with. And, apart from the large element of self-deception which has generally mingled in the delight of connoisseurs, the excellence of the leaf used by the most celebrated Cuban houses was always to be relied upon until within the last few years. After all the absurd raving about flavours had been dissipated, with the artificial perfumes by which the smokers were deceived, there used to be a solid ground for delight in the reality of good tobacco which remained. The first cause of the fame which these cigars acquired was the careful selection of the leaf dead in their manufacture. But there is inferior tobacco grown in Cuba as elsewhere; and, since the business of most of the great firms has fallen into the hands of successors of the original makers, large quantities of poor leaf have been passed into the market under the cover of the old brands. The temptation of limitless prices offered for these brands has been too much for the honesty of the new generation; and names are no longer guarantees for quality. A writer in the Leeds Mercury says:—"On several occasions lately, I have heard of cigar merchants refusing to give to their favourite customers cigars which they had in stock, and which were those of well-known brands, on the ground that these cigars had so far fallen away from the former standard of quality as not to be fit to be placed before any one conversant with the difference between tobacco and cabbage-leaf." But it must be borne in mind that there is no lack of good tobacco to be had. Abundant tobacco comes into our markets of quality infinitely superior to that which has lately been passed off under the cloak of the glorified Cuban brands.

THE Board of Directors of the East Indian Railway have recently, on a recommendation from the Agency in India, sanctioned the grant of "a bonus of six months' pay, Rs. 1,200, to engine-driver Thomas Kelsey, on his retiring from the service of the company, with the congratulatory remark that his exceptionally meritorious services, combined with his long period of service extending over nearly twenty years, fully entitle him to this consideration. Engineman Kelsey entered the service of the East Indian Railway Co. in 1856. In the early part of 1857 when Allahabad was in commotion, and the mutiny was hourly expected to break out in that part of the North-West, Kelsey was the first volunteer on the perilous duty of running up the line (which, beyond Sirathoo (as far as there extended) with an engine and three trucks to bring in the engineers and other employés of the railway, who were at the time stationed at different parts of the line. This he was permitted to do, and accomplished the journey both expeditiously and with satisfactory results. Subsequent to this again he volunteered to take up the first batch of troops for the relief of Cawnpore and Lucknow, and in several other ways rendered valuable assistance during those trying times. Coupling these instances of willingness to help at a time when it was so much needed, together with his long service with scarcely a day's leave, and general good conduct, Kelsey has fully earned and is well deserving of the special recognition accorded. Feeling heath after a lengthy period in a tropical climate, and unequal to onerous duties, have rendered his retirement a necessity, and we trust that the repose he has so well earned may be long enjoyed. This paragraph is taken from our contemporary the Indian Daily News, Calcutta, who seems to be quite pleased with the generosity of the Railway Company. The man alluded to has, however, fairly earned a pension and that would be only an adequate reward for his long services. The sum he has received does not raise the estimate of the directors' liberality which it is always agreeable to form on such an occasion as this one.

THE Englishman publishes the following important information regarding Central Asian affairs:—"The popular belief that the position of Russia south of the Caspian is one of those in which influences must necessarily come, is, unless our information very much deceives us, receiving ample confirmation from events. Intelligence not long since reached Her Majesty's Minister at Teheran, to the effect that the Russian authorities were about to advance their posts from Azhurade and Gez to Khoja Nafas, some distance to the south of the Gurgan river, and Mulla Khan not far from Astrabad. Such an advance would be a violation of the understanding by which Great Britain, Russia, and Persia have agreed to accept the lower course of the Attrek as the boundary between Russian and Persian territory; and the Government of India regards it in so serious a light as to have made it the subject of an urgent representation to the Secretary of State. But other and possibly more serious complications have arisen. The Court of St. Petersburgh has shown a disposition to dispute the right of England to station troops in the territory of Khelat; and the Government of India has urged on the home authorities the advisability of settling the point once and for all by an intimation of their views on the subject to the Russian Government. The visit of Count Schouvaloff to St. Petersburgh has, in short, resulted in something like an entire re-opening of the Central Asian question, an important discussions will, we suspect, follow his return to London. We learn with satisfaction, that the Government of India is thoroughly awake both to the gravity of the situation and to its responsibilities in the matter; and it seems agreed on all hands that further encroachments by Russia in the direction of either Persia or Afghanistan should be met by a more determined attitude than has yet been assumed. How the question of our right to station troops in Khelat has come to the front, or what the precise circumstances are which are considered to have made it necessary to anticipate it, we are not in a position to say. But it is not difficult to see that circumstances might at any moment arise, if they are not already imminent, which would compel us to assert the right in a practical way."

THE following suggestion by the Madras Mail is, we believe, quite new; but whether it is practicable is another matter altogether:—"We are of opinion that both the Indian and Imperial Governments should join in establishing on the high way between the two countries an Indian Relief Depôt. India requires fresh drafts and new regiments landed on her shores at the time of the year when most suited to European constitutions, but she sends back her worn out and time-expired military servants straight into a vigorous northern winter, and these suffer the consequences perhaps for life, and a large percentage die. It would be but common humanity to take care that soldiers from India should only arrive in England in the warm summer season, thus giving them time to prepare for the gradually approaching winter months. England should be willing to aid India with a view to economy—economy that is, in the valuable lives of her fighting men, for if she cannot recruit them as easily as she may wish, she at least can take care of them when once she has got them. We do not intend to discuss where this acclimatising depôt should be, that question must be settled by our statesmen. Egypt naturally suggests itself as the most suitable country in every way; failing Egypt, there are the shores of the Mediterranean to select from, and England could surely rent or buy land suitable for the purpose. As a last resource, we have our island dependencies—Malta and Gozo. Malta is, however densely inhabited, and we have there already a powerful garrison, and further accommodation for troops might be difficult to obtain. The depôt should be under the command of some experienced general officer aided by a selected staff. By the end of October the whole of the fresh drafts and regiments for India should be collected there; then would commence the transport of troops between the depôt and Bombay and so on, and when the month of May comes round the transport service between Portsmouth and the depôt would go on, and by the end of October we should again find at the depôt the next season's reliefs for India. This shipment and transshipment would cause considerable expense, but fewer transports would be required, and a consideration for our soldiers would be shown that means true economy."

A SHERIFF'S SALE SET ASIDE FOR IRREGULARITY.

GOVIND GUNGADHUR V. RUCKMABAI, WIDOW.

AN application in connection with the above suit was made to Mr. Justice Bayley in Chambers on Tuesday last, for setting aside a sale of a shawl made by the Depy. Sheriff, on the ground that, in the conduct of the sale, there was such a material irregularity as caused a substantial injury to the estate of which the shawl formed a portion. Mr. Shamrao, solicitor, appeared for the plaintiff; Mr. Langley for the defendant, and Mr. Macfarlane for Mr. Jeewanjee Hormusjee Guzder, proprietor of the Byculla Hotel, the purchaser at the sale.

The affidavits used in the matter show the facts of the case to be these. The defendant is the executrix of the last will and testament of the late Nagoo Dawoo. In August 1874, a decree was made against her as such executrix, at the instance of the plaintiff, for Rs. 4,153, with interest on the judgment. In January 1875, several immoveable properties belonging to the estate of the deceased were attached in execution of the decree and a warrant of sale was issued in the following month. A Sheriff's proclamation was subsequently published in the newspapers regarding the sale, which was fixed for the 3rd May 1875. There were five lots to be sold between 3 and 4 p. m., with an interval of a quarter of an hour between the sale of each lot. In pursuance of the notification several intending purchasers had assembled at lot No. 1, which as well as lots Nos. 2, 3, and 4 is situated in Camatepoora 10th lane, but neither the Deputy Sheriff nor any of his men attended at the place at or about the appointed time. Lot No. 5 is situated in Camatepoora 1st lane, at some distance from the other lots, and is a shawl consisting of seven compartments, which yield as rent Rs. 54 a month, and which formerly yielded a much higher sum as monthly rent. It is a well built chawl, and there were purchasers who intended to bid for it about Rs. 3,000 at least.

Between 3 and 4 p. m. that day, several persons were waiting in Camatepoora 10th lane for the arrival of the Sheriff's people for the sale of the first four lots situated in that lane, and the reason for their waiting there was that they believed that the several lots would be offered for sale in the order in which their sale was advertised. Whilst they were thus waiting in the 10th lane, Mr. Malins, the Deputy Sheriff, riding in the same carriage with Mr. Jeewanjee Hormusjee Guzder, drove up to lot No. 5; the sale commenced and the lot was knocked down to Mr. Jeewanjee for Rs. 100—Mr. Jeewanjee being the only bidder present. After the sale was over, Mr. Malins, Mr. Jeewanjee, a bailiff, and some clerks went to the 10th lane to sell lots Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 4; but the sale was not proceeded with.

Mr. Jeewanjee Hormusjee said in his affidavit that the sale of lot No. 5 commenced at the proper time, and that he bought the property for Rs. 100 solely for himself. A crowd of persons had gathered together at the sale. It is very seldom that any property sold by the Sheriff realises the price it would fetch if it were sold with a good title and proper conveyance; and where the judgment debtor is a native female, the property realises a still less price. Under no circumstances could the property in question be worth Rs. 3,000. Mr. Jeewanjee's going with Mr. Malins in his (Mr. Malins's) carriage was a mere accident, he having picked him up on his way to the property to be sold. Mr. Malins had informed him that the property to be sold consisted of a shawl not sold, because the persons concerned were not able to point out with any degree of certainty what property was comprised in each of those lots.

Two affidavits had been filed in answer to Mr. Jeewanjee's above statements. Opposite to lot No. 5 is a Borah Gumat-khana, and many members of the Borah caste had been there to a dinner party; that a number of them gathered there to see what was going on, but none of them bid for the property; and that there was not a single individual in the crowd who went there with the intention of purchasing the property. Lot No. 5 is worth more than Rs. 3,000, and had it not been sold out of his order, it would have realised a much larger amount.

Mr. Justice Bayley, in disposing of the summons, said that lot No. 5 having been sold by the Deputy Sheriff at 3-30 p.m., and not at 4 p.m., the time advertised for the sale, the sale must be set aside. The defendant was to pay the costs of this summons of the execution plaintiff out of the testator's estate. The purchaser was not entitled to his costs. The costs of the defendant were also to be paid out of the estate.

THE DILEMMA.

CHAPTER XI.

NEXT morning was the first of the race-meeting, and Yorke, who had never seen any races in India, or indeed anywhere else, would fain have been present, but duty forbade. Devotion must have a final canter, and moreover Spragge had discovered hard by a neighbouring village a wall almost a facsimile of that put up on the course, stiffer if anything, but with a good take off. "The very thing to practise the little horse at; he'll do everything else all right enough, the game little beggar! but there is no saying how he might behave if he came across a new kind of jump for the first time. Nothing like practice." And accordingly, while all the rest of the station were driving down to the race-course, which was at the extreme end of the station, on the flank of the Native Cavalry parade, Yorke and Spragge (for the good-natured fellow had given up the races to accompany his friend) cantered across the plain in the other direction in quest of the exemplar which the latter had discovered, a rare form enclosure in those parts. In truth, in the early morning with no hounds to follow or excitement of any sort it looked a formidable thing to face. Yorke, however, did not stop to think but cantered straight at it; and the little horse, feeling the rider's unqualified hand and steady gripe, swerved not to right or left, but cleared the wall without touching.

"Bravo!" called out Jerry to his friend on the other side; "four feet six if it's an inch, and looks five and more from here. Your mare is barely as much. Well done, again he cried, as Yorke, cantering, back took the wall a second time. "What a good-plucked little horse it is, to be sure, and he got fourteen three! If the pace does not get forced too much, but he has time to take his fences quietly, I don't believe there's one of them can come near him. Now then, Arty, pop him over just once more and back again, so that he may know what it is and may will be like when he sees it, and then that will be enough for the old boy." Which feat accomplished, and the grey having had his gallop in a circuit over the neighbouring fields of young corn, while Spragge looked on approvingly, the two young officers returned slowly home. "Oh, by Jove!" said Spragge, "I wish I weighed a stone less than you, Arty, then you'd have to let me ride instead of you; but these long legs of mine will never be of any use for racing," he continued, looking down ruefully at the members referred to, which indeed the diminutive pony he bestrode barely kept from touching the ground.

Yorke had the satisfaction of hearing casually at mess that evening that the commissioner and his daughter were not at the morning's races, but were expected to be present the next day.

At last came the eventful morning, with a sky cloudless as usual at that season of the year, and a pleasant fresh air, although it was the middle of February, so that overcoats and shawls came not amiss at first to the occupants of the grand stand. A few of the spectators were on horseback, being thus able to see the start for the short races, and by cutting across to come in at the finish; but the majority took up their places in the grand stand, sheltered by the roof and by a screen of canvas on one side from the rising sun. That spacious edifice, which could accommodate a hundred persons with ease, yet was pretty full on this occasion, was raised on pillars a few feet above the ground, which space underneath had been running in a flat race the day before, suddenly the land sloped away in the rear (Jerry rushing out every minute from the front to see that the operation was properly conducted), takes up his place at first in the enclosure, and leaning over the railings, looks down upon the second row of spectators on the stand. They are chiefly ladies, the gentlemen for the most part standing on the seats behind; but the one face he is in search of is not there, and he thinks with a sinking heart that the object for which he has made this journey is already defeated. The sound of carriage wheels is heard at the back of the stand, and Yorke sees from his vantage-ground the heads of the commissioner's mounted orderlies. The view is otherwise interrupted by people and palkees and buggies, but presently there is a stir among the occupants of the stand, and room is made for Miss Cunningham, who takes her place in the front row beside Mrs. Polwheedle; and while greetings are exchanged with the other ladies, Yorke thinks how the latter seem to admire the unsophisticated bride of this peerless creature. He notes, too, that while the appearance of the other ladies is generally suggestive of hurried rising, and further attention to the hair and person on their arrival at the course, Miss Cunningham's bright perfectly simple, seems as complete and finished in its way as it might be if she were dressed for Ascot. And see, her pretty little hat, it is trimmed with blue and there is a blue ribbon round her throat to match. Can this be indeed the same girl? But while he stands wondering how his colours can have become known, the young lady looking down, recognises and greets him with a gracious bow and smile, in which the young man thinks he can read sympathy and encouragement. Encouragement for the impending event and also for the future. He feels his colour come and go, and his heart beats high as he lifts his hat and bows in reply, feeling, too, that the eyes of all the ladies in the front row are on him, and big first to make his way to the stand and express his gratitude; but how to push his way through its occupants to the front row? and how find fitting words before so many people? Abandoning this idea, therefore, as soon as conceived, he retires to the back of the enclosure to have a final look at the grey before the saddling time comes.

"There's young Yorke of the native infantry," observed Mrs. Polwheedle, as she noticed Miss Cunningham's bow; "he's got a horse in for the steeplechase, you know. I shouldn't have thought he was one of the sort for that kind of thing; but these subs are a harum-scarum lot."

"Colonel Falkland says that Mr. Yorke is a very good rider, and I am sure there is nothing harum-scarum about him," replied the young lady.

"Oh no, that's just it; young Yorke always looks as if he couldn't say to a gooee; and that's what surprised me so, his going in for this steeplechase."

If he fails in that accomplishment it is not for want of opportunity——" Then the young lady stopped; for as Mrs Polwheedle's voice was not of the lowest, she became conscious of acting as Yorke's champion before all the occupants of the stand.

The sport provided on this morning was usually good, there being as many as four events on the card, besides the steeplechase which was last on the list, and by the general consent the most interesting. All, however, from the exciting nature of the contest in itself, it possessed the additional attraction of there being no less than six entries, whereas for no other race had there been more than three competitors.

The particulars of the competition may be best described by copying the following extract from the card of the day:—

"No. 5. The Grand Mustaphabad Steeplechase. A cup value Rs. 500; presented by Colonel Tar'ar.—About 11 hours with a sweepstakes of Rs. 50 half forfeit. Open to all horses bona fide the property of residents at Mustaphabad. Catch-weights. New Steeplechase-Course, about two miles and a half.

"yond themselves into colossal proportions," and are inspired with a power not their own." "The writers of such articles know they are expressing not their own opinions, but for the moment they are expressing, I do not say always the whole force of public opinion, yet the opinion of a corporation greater than they are; and therefore, they are bound by every feeling of loyalty and honour not to be sly or sulky it by any frivolity or levity of their own. They are inspired, also, by this still greater motive. They are influenced not only by the feeling of what is behind them, but by the feeling of what is before them. They know they are addressing the whole English people, but likewise the whole of the English-speaking people throughout the world. They know that the stone they throw into the water goes on with ever-widening circles until it reaches the antipodes." A journalist is, no doubt, conscious of his audience as a barrister is conscious of his jury, or an orator of upturned faces, and he may be conscious also that most people or many people think as he does, but we confess we fail to see the inspiration in either consciousness. The unseen faces daunt more than they inspire. There would be more inspiration, we should think, in the consciousness that he stood alone, that he was expressing his own innermost thought, that he had to turn the world from its loved opinions to others he deemed more sound. The function of funnels is useful, but hardly deserves all this rhetoric, and we should have thought inspiration more likely to come to the loneliest cryer in the wilderness than to the most silvery of speaking-trumpets, though, no doubt, the consequent roar might not be so audible at the antipodes. That the presence of an audience can sometimes greatly excite an orator is, no doubt, the truth, but we should hardly have believed, except on the Dean's testimony, that the suppression of individuality, the consciousness of expressing the feelings of corporations greater than themselves, would elevate writers' souls, or raise their minds above themselves to colossal proportions. Does he seriously mean to say that Mr. Sterling, writing to express the opinion of the Corporation of the City of London, would be more inspired than if he were writing to express the opinion of Mr. Sterling? The Times might say he was wiser, and more moderate, and more cautious, but even the Times would hardly plead that the duty of reflecting opinions was a duty that developed inspiration. We should have said the special drawback to the power of a newspaper writer was the necessity, which an author need not feel, of being within range of to-morrow's readers, of saying nothing which they will set down as unpractical, or doubtful or view of expressing themselves to themselves instead of expressing the teacher to them.

We do not see the use of these hymns to the Press, any more than we see the use of the sneers which used to be levelled at all men who wrote for pay. The profession is a very useful profession and a very honourable one; but there is nothing mystical about it, any more than about the Bar, or civil engineering or a seat in Parliament. A professional publicist may be a man of genius, just as the Bar may produce a Follett, or civil engineering a Brunel, or Parliament a Pitt, but the profession is not full of geniuses at all. The average journalist is very like the average Member of Parliament though usefully, from his training quicker-witted, bases his views on much the same facts, expounds them in much the same way and is exposed to every temptation, but one is much the same degree. He has not to think of himself quite so much because he is invisible to the public and he therefore is less hampered by the necessity or imagined necessity of being always consistent with himself, but he is essentially much the same kind of man." He has a rather clearer knowledge of his subject than his readers, he can express himself with a good deal more definiteness than they can, and he has sometimes from much discussion a more accurate view of the consequences of events, but his only other advantage is that he is an expert talking to amateurs. The effort involved in expressing thought is in either case nearly the same. There have been journalists to whom writing was a slow pain—that certainly was the case with Albany Foublanque—as there have been orators in whom extempore speaking was most difficult—e.g., Dr. Chalmers—but to most of them writing is a work from which they derive a little of the artist's gratification. They would much rather write than not write just as most singers would rather sing than not sing. That journalists break down rapidly is true, and arises from the hurry amid which their work is done, but that they when in health feel writing a burden is a Mr. Chilipish belief with foundation only in individual cases. The quality of the work differs just as much as the characters of the workmen. As a rule we should say admiration for it was generally misplaced, that we, on the whole, inferior to the good writing found in books, all is much more interesting, but that is because the subject interests. There are no doubt occasional exceptions. The Times published in the spring of 1873 half-a-dozen articles in defence of M. Thiers and the Conservative Republic in France which were about as good as "leaders" could be,—convincing arguments expressed in a sinewy style very rare in newspaper literature; but the Times "leaders" generally are and must be ordinary specimens of English writing, deriving most of their interest from their subject-matter, or their accurate reflection of commonplace English feeling. Of leadership, in Dean Stanley's sense, there is seldom a trace, though no doubt, the effective of articles is very often leading. We do not know a newspaper published in English in which the average writing is more worthy for its brilliance, and a great quantity of it is of a very slipshod kind. Indeed, very good writing,—as good, for instance, as the letters in which a correspondent of the Times who signed himself "An Englishman" attacked Louis Napoleon after the coup d'etat, letters, as far as we can judge, distinctly superior in style to those of Junius—would by degrees bore those readers to inanity. People like curries now and then, but they know their own need when they ask for daily bread, and a very simple, mannerless writer, who every day told them something, would very soon be the favourite of the public. Leader-writing is not a work which one man can do as well as another; on the contrary, it is work which many very able men cannot do at all, but it is ordinary work nevertheless, like preaching, or lecturing, or writing despatches, and the attempt to elevate it into anything higher only misleads. Musicians are not semi-divine because Beethoven lived, nor is sermon-making a mystical function because Felix trembled before Paul. The tendency to bow down and worship the Press is but a specimen of the permanent tendency to bow down to power, and we do not like to see a man like Dean Stanley who are free from it themselves, giving to it in others the sanction conveyed in the invention of rhetorical explanations.

ADVERTISING AT RAILWAY STATIONS.

THE Proprietor of the Bombay Gazette's Press having leased (among other privileges) from the Great Indian Peninsula Railway Company, and the Bombay, Baroda, and Central India Railway Company, the exclusive right of advertising at all the Railway Stations belonging to those two Companies, is prepared to contract with parties desirous of posting Notices or Advertisements on the lines.

The announcements may be in English or in any of the Native languages.

The advantages which Railway Stations present as a means of bringing intimations of all kinds before the public have been demonstrated in England by the extensive use which is made by Advertisers, of every station, great and small, along every line in the United Kingdom.

Insurance Companies, Shipping Companies, Hotel-keepers, Merchants, Traders, and others who wish to force their business on the notice of the Public, all alike value the privilege of Railway Station Advertising.

There is no reason why the privilege should not be also specially valuable to Advertisers in India. Looking to the great and increasing number of Native Railway Passengers on the two trunk lines of Western India, native merchants, traders, &c., seeing that they have the privilege of advertising in their own language, would find the publication of their announcement at Railway Stations a decided means of extending their business.

And as nearly ALL TRAVELLERS ARRIVING IN INDIA NOW LAND IN BOMBAY, and proceed by the G. I. P. or B. B. and C. I. Railways to their destinations, Placards exhibited at the different Stations on those lines are every day becoming more and more valuable as means of bringing the Advertisers' business to the notice of the Public.

Advertisers can select the Stations, on either line, at which they wish their Placards posted, and may advertise for any period that may be agreed on. The charges have been fixed on an extremely moderate scale to encourage Advertisers to make a liberal use of the new means now offered of making announcements known to the Public.

Placards, according to the taste of Advertisers, may be printed at the "Bombay Gazette" Press.

THE "TERAI" HAT,

For Ladies and Gentlemen. A soft double Hat for warm climates, which can be folded in a closed box without damage. Especially adapted for travelling purposes.

ANDRE AND CO., HATTERS,
127, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON,

Direct the attention of Ladies and Gentlemen to their New "TERAI HAT," now much worn in all the northern provinces of India, and highly recommended. FORWARDED RETAIL POST FREE TO ANY PART OF INDIA, PRICE 25s. 6d. FREE DOUBLE HAT,

SIR,—I am happy to be able to speak in the highest terms of your "Terai Hat," for EASE, COMFORT, CONVENIENCE OF PACKING, AND DURABILITY. Although the Hat is hardly sufficient protection for the head in the extreme heat of the Plains of India, YET FOR ALL WORK IN THE HILLS AT ALL SEASONS, AND FOR JOURNEYS, AND FOR GENERAL WEAR IN THE COOLER WEATHER IN THE PLAINS, it is admirably adapted. The late Earl of Mayo constantly wore your "Terai Hat," which was recommended to him by Colonel Ramsay.

I remain, yours faithfully,
O. T. BURNE.
Late Secretary to His Excellency the late Earl of Mayo.

16th July, 1873.

GENTLEMEN,—I have found your Terai Hat a first-rate Hat. I never wear anything else when in the district. It is a wonderful protection from the sun, and is, in my opinion, not ONLY FITTED FOR THE COOL SLOPES OF THE HIMALAYAS, BUT FOR THE SEVERE HEAT OF THE PLAINS OF INDIA. I wear it in May, at Poona, the hottest season of the year, and find it preferable to the ordinary felt Helmet. The Lady's HAT IS PRONOUNCED TO BE PERFECTION AS A RIDING HAT.

I am, Gentlemen, yours faithfully,
AYRTON PULLAN, Captain,
Deputy-Supt. G. T. Survey of India.
